Dr. Marcus,

Good evening, and thank you got your email. I appreciate your concern regarding timing, and it is certainly my intention to have these college/school faculty meetings optimally scheduled. Fortunately, a significant number of faculty have already rsvp'd, so we will proceed. It is a challenge to find times that are convenient to a majority of faculty, as well as a location that would be large enough to accommodate COAS.

In addition to college-wide faculty meetings, I have also been conducting smaller interdisciplinary groups of meetings with faculty from various schools to provide additional opportunities for faculty to share feedback regarding a variety of matters. These meetings will also continue in the spring.

Also, the intent of these meetings is not solely for the purpose of faculty to provide feedback regarding the Dean, but to discuss with me a variety of topics of interest to faculty. I look forward to the meeting next week. Thank you.

Subject: Reschedule of COAS Faculty Meeting with Provost

Dear Provost Wutoh:

I hope you will consider rescheduling your meeting with COAS from next week Thursday to sometime early in the Spring semester of 2018. There are a number of reasons to do this.

*The meeting was only announced yesterday - about a weeks turnaround from announcement to the actual meeting.

*The meeting will be held after the end of the fall semester and beginning of the spring semester. Many faculty may have made plans that they cannot change, even for a meeting as important as this.

*To get an accurate picture of the COAS view of the Dean, you want as much participation as possible from faculty. This you will only get with a reasonable amount of time between the announcement and the meeting.

Respectfully,

Marcus Alfred
